NerdWallet considers income, affordability, population growth, and unemployment rates

San Francisco, CA (January 14, 2014) – NerdWallet, a consumer advocacy website, recently conducted a study to find the best places for job seekers in Wisconsin – and De Pere is in the top 10.

As many people continue searching for employment in this recovering economy, NerdWallet wanted to help residents of the Badger State find the best places for jobs. To do so, NerdWallet evaluated the state's cities using the following criteria:

- Median household income
- Monthly homeowner costs
- Population growth of those ages 16 and older
- Unemployment rates

NerdWallet ranked De Pere as the 9th best place for job seekers in Wisconsin. De Pere experienced a 4.7 percent increase in the working-age population between 2009 and 2012, and its residents make a median household income of $56,368. Humana is a major employer in the city.

Other places in the top 10 include Stevens Point and Menomonee Falls. See the full study here.
